Sales Transactions

Customer Purchases Product

Jane Smith (Product Owner

When

When does it happen?
What other related dates/times are know/fixed at this time?

- Order Date, Delivery Date
- Order Datetime, Delivery Due Date
- Period: Day, Month, Year

How

How (exactly) does it happen?
How do we know it happened?
How do we uniquely identify each event?

- Transaction ID
- Order ID

Event Type: Discrete Event (tracked through e-commerce systems)
Granularity: product-level detail (each product purchase is recorded individually)

Who

Who does what? How do we organize them?
How do they change? Who else is involved?

- Customer (Business, Consumer, Repeat)
- Salesperson (Employee)
- Third Party (Courier)
- Entire sales team is involved in the process

How Many

How many/much is involved? How long does it take?

- Quantity (Fully Additive)
- Revenue (Fully Additive)
- Profit (Fully Additive)
- Discounts applied (Non-Additive if percentage, Semi-Additive if other)
- Promotion impact

Where

Where does it happen? Where does it refer to?

- Sales Location (Online, Mobile App, Physical Store)
- Delivery Address (Customer Address)
- Region/Country (Brazil, Bangladesh)

What

What is involved/used? How are they organized?
How do they change?

- Product (Item)
- Order (Transaction)
-

Why

Why does it happen? Why do quantities vary?

- Purchase Need
- Promotions, Discounts
- Customer demand, seasonal trends

BEAM* Canvas

modelstorming.com - Agile Data Warehouse Design

* Business Event Analysis and Modeling

Inspired by The Business Model Canvas (strategyzer.com), this work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License by Lawrence Corr

Inventory Updates

Warehouse Staff/System Update Inventory Levels

Mike Johnson (Data Analyst)

When

When does it happen?
What other related dates/times are know/fixed at this time?

- Update Date, Time
- Frequency of Updates (Daily, Weekly, Monthly)
- Last business day of the month for inventory check

How

How (exactly) does it happen?
How do we know it happened?
How do we uniquely identify each event?

- Inventory Management System
- Manual Update (Reason for Manual adjustment)
- Inventory Update ID

Event Type: Discrete Event (tracked through inventory management systems)
Granularity: Product Inventory Update-level detail (each product adjustment is recorded individually)

Who

Who does what? How do we organize them?
How do they change? Who else is involved?

- Inventory Managers (Employee ID, Name)
- Warehouse Staff (Employee ID, Name)
- Supplier (Third Party)

How Many

How many/much is involved? How long does it take?

- Quantity Added/Removed (Fully Additive)
- Inventory Level (before and after update) (Fully Additive)
- Inventory Turnover Rate (Non-Additive)

Where

Where does it happen? Where does it refer to?

- Warehouse Location (Warehouse ID, Address)
- Store Location (Store ID, Address)
- Region (City, Country)

What

What is involved/used? How are they organized?
How do they change?

- Product (Item)
- Inventory (Resource)
- Inver

Why

Why does it happen? Why do quantities vary?

- Sales Transactions (Decrease in Inventory)
- Returns (Increase in Inventory)
- Restocking (Replenishment)
- Demand Changes
- Supplier delivery schedules

Inspired by The Business Model Canvas (strategyzer.com), this work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License by Lawrence Corr

Customer Interactions

Customer Service Interaction

Alice Davis (Data Analyst)

When

When does it happen?
What other related dates/times are know/fixed at this time?

- Interaction Date, Time
- Time of Day (Morning, Afternoon, Evening)
- Day of the Week (Weekday, Weekend)
- Customer service hours

How

How (exactly) does it happen?
How do we know it happened?
How do we uniquely identify each event?

- Communication Method (Phone Call, Email, Chat)
- Service Level (Response Time, Resolution Time) ##

Event Type: Evolving event (tracked through CRM systems)
Granularity: Customer Interaction-level detail (each customer interaction is recorded individually)

Who

Who does what? How do we organize them?
How do they change? Who else is involved?

- Customers (Business, Consumer, Repeat)
- Customer Service Representatives (Employee)
- Support Team

How Many

How many/much is involved? How long does it take?

- Number of Interactions (Fully Additive)
- Interaction Duration (Minutes) (Fully Additive)

[UoM, Fact Type: Fully Additive, Semi-Additive, Non-Additive]

Where

Where does it happen? Where does it refer to?

- Interaction Channel (Physical Store, Website, Phone, Email, Live Chat)
- Region (City, Country)

What

What is involved/used? How are they organized?
How do they change?

- Service Request/Query
- Interaction type (Inquiry, complaint, Feedback)

Why

Why does it happen? Why do quantities vary?

- Product Inquiry (Information Request)
- Issue Resolution (Problem Solving)
- Feedback (Customer Satisfaction)

BEAM* Canvas

modelstorming.com - Agile Data Warehouse Design
* Business Event Analysis and Modeling

Inspired by The Business Model Canvas (strategyzer.com), this work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License by Lawrence Corr

Marketing Campaigns

Marketing Team/System launches and monitors marketing campaigns

Emma Brown (Marketing Manager)

When

When does it happen?
What other related dates/times are know/fixed at this time?

- Campaign Start Date, End Date
- Monthly, Quarterly planning

How

How (exactly) does it happen?
How do we know it happened?
How do we uniquely identify each event?

- Campaign ID

Event Type: Recurring Event (tracked through marketing automation tools)
Granularity: Marketing Campaign-level detail (each Marketing campaign is recorded individually)

Who

Who does what? How do we organize them?
How do they change? Who else is involved?

- Marketing Team (Employee)
- Target Audience (Customer)
- Third-party Advertisers

How Many

How many/much is involved? How long does it take?

- Budget allocated (Fully Additive)####
- Reach (Number of People) (Fully Additive)

Where

Where does it happen? Where does it refer to?

- Campaign Channel (Online, TV, Radio, Print)
- Target regions (Brazil, Bangladesh, Global)

What

What is involved/used? How are they organized?
How do they change?

- Campaign (Event)
- Advertisement (Resource)

Why

Why does it happen? Why do quantities vary?

- Promotion of Product/Service
- Brand Awareness
- Seasonal campaigns

BEAM* Canvas

modelstorming.com - Agile Data Warehouse Design

* Business Event Analysis and Modeling

Inspired by The Business Model Canvas (strategyzer.com), this work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License by Lawrence Corr

Financial Transactions

Finance Team/System records financial transactions

John Doe (Project Spensor)

When

When does it happen?
What other related dates/times are know/fixed at this time?

- Transaction Date
- Monthly, Quarterly financial close

How

How (exactly) does it happen?
How do we know it happened?
How do we uniquely identify each event?

- Transaction ID

Event Type: Discrete Event (tracked through financial systems)
Granularity: Financial Transaction-level detail (each Financial Transaction is recorded individually)

Who

Who does what? How do we organize them?
How do they change? Who else is involved?

- Customer (Payer)
- Company (Receiver)
- Finance Team (Employee)

How Many

How many/much is involved? How long does it take?

- Amount (Fully Additive)
- Number of Transactions (Fully Additive)

Where

Where does it happen? Where does it refer to?

- Transaction Location (Online, In-Store)
- Company's financial systems

What

What is involved/used? How are they organized?
How do they change?

- Transaction (Payment)

Why

Why does it happen? Why do quantities vary?

- Payment of Goods/Services
- Refunds, Adjustments
- Revenue recognition

BEAM* Canvas

modelstorming.com - Agile Data Warehouse Design

* Business Event Analysis and Modeling

Inspired by The Business Model Canvas (strategyzer.com), this work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License by Lawrence Corr

Shipping And Delivery

Logistics Managers/Shipping System records the shipping and delivery of orders

John Doe (Logistics Manager)

When

When does it happen?
What other related dates/times are know/fixed at this time?

- Shipping Date
- Delivery Date

How

How (exactly) does it happen?
How do we know it happened?
How do we uniquely identify each event?

- Logistics management systems
- Shipping Event ID

Event Type: Discrete Event (tracked through financial systems)
Granularity: Single Shipping-Level detail (each Shipping Event is recorded individually)

Who

Who does what? How do we organize them?
How do they change? Who else is involved?

- Logistics Team (Employee)
- Customer (Receiver)
- Shipping Carrier (Third-Party)

How Many

How many/much is involved? How long does it take?

- Number of shipments (Fully Additive)
- Total Shipment weight (Fully Additive)
- Shipping Cost (Fully Additive)
- Number of Delivered items (Fully Additive)
- Delivery Delays (Fully Additive)

Where

Where does it happen? Where does it refer to?

- Shipping Location
- Stores (Online, offline)
- Warehouse
- Customer delivery address

What

What is involved/used? How are they organized?
How do they change?

- Order Shipping
- Order Delivery

Why

Why does it happen? Why do quantities vary?

- Delivery of orders to customers
- Track order shipments
- Optimize Delivery performance
- Ensure on-time delivery
- Manage shipping costs